DISTILLERY.

A Meeting of the trade was also day held, at which feventees principal pal-entered Diffillers were prefent. Each perfon gave a particular account of what he had fuffered, and was every day fuffering, from the orders of the Board of Eccife, and the manner in which these orders the orders of the Board of Excife, and the manner in which there orders were executed by the officers under them.

These things considered, it was the unanimous opinion, that the particulars should be laid before the public. The business of the manufacturer has been rendered most disagreeable, and their lives embittered. Certain measures were next proposed for obtaining relief, but as they are of the otmost importance, a full meeting of the trade was judged to be requisite, that the concerned may act in a body.

It is therefore hereby requested, that all entered Distillers may attend in Mr Fortune's Tavern, Edinburgh, upon Tuessay the 1 stheorem, at twelve o'clock before noon, as they value their property and future peace.

From the London Papers, Dec. 1.

Haghe, Nov. 23. The treaty of alliance between his Maje-By of France and the States-General of the United Provinces, figned at Fontainbleau on the 10th of November 1785, after a furtable preamble, contains the following articles, viz.

1st. There shall be a sincere and constant friendship and union between his Christian Majesty, his heirs, and successors, and the United Provinces of the Low Countries. For which purpose the high contracting parties will be most particularly careful that nothing shall occur in their respective estates to di-fturb the said harmony, and so far from committing any act of hostility, on any account whatever, that they will do every thing for the reciprocal support of their mutual honour and ad-

2d. The Christian King and the States General promise to contribute all in their power to their respective security, and to preserve themselves in tranquillity, peace, and neutrality, as al-fo the actual possession of all their citates, domains, franchises, and liberties, and to protect each other from any hostile attack in all parts of the world; and in order the more positively to fix the extent of the guarantee with which his Majesty has charged himself, it is expressly stipulated, that it shall comprehend the treaties of Muniter of 1648, and of Aix la Chapelle of 1748, except the derogations which the faid treaties have undergone, or may undergo in future.

3d. In confequence of the above engagement, the contracting parties shall unite for the prefervation of peace, and in case either of them is threatened with an attack, the other shall use

4th. But if the faid good offices shall prove ineffectual, his Christian Majesty and their High Mightinesses engage from this time to affist each other both by sea and land, for which purpose his Most Christian Majesty shall furnish the States General with 10,000 men infantry, 2000 men cavalry, 16 feet General with 10,000 men infantry, 2000 men cavalry, 12 fail of the line, and 6 frigates; and their High Mightinesses, in case of a marine war, or in case his Majesty shall meet with any hostilities by sea, shall furnish six ships of the line and three frigates; and in case of an attack upon the French territory, the States General shall furnish their contingent of troops in money, which shall be estimated by a separate article or conwention, unless they prefer furnishing them in kind; the esti-mate to be made on the fooring of 5000 men infantry, and 1000 men cavalry.

5th. The power which furnishes the succours, whether in this or men, shall pay and support them, wherever they may be employed by the ally; and whether the ships or troops remain a long or a short time in the ports of the party requiring the succours, the said party is to furnish them with what they may want, at the fame rate as if they belonged to them; nevertheless the said ships and troops are not, in any respect, to be maintained at the expence of the requiring party, although they are, during the whole war in which the faid party may be engaged, to be entirely at their disposal, and under the command of their own chief, but in all operations to be entirely under command of the chief of the requiring party. 6th. The Christian King and the States General engage to keep the ships and troops complete and well armed, infomuch that as foon as either of the powers may have furnished the required fuccours stipulated in the 4th article, they shall cause a number of flips and frigates to be armed equal to what they have furnished, to be ready to replace such as may be lost by the accidents of war or the fea.

7th. In case the stipulated succours shall be insufficient for the defence of the requiring party, and to procure a proper peace, they shall be augmented according to the necessities of the requiring party; nay, the contracting parties shall assist each other with all their forces, if necessary; but it is agreed, that, at any rate, the contingent of troops to be furnished by the States General shall not exceed twenty thousand men infantry, and four thousand men cavalry, and the referve made in the 4th article, in favour of the States General, with regard to the land forces, shall remain in force.

8th. When a marine war shall be declared, in which neither of the contracting powers have any part, they shall mutually guarantee to each other the liberty of the seas in conformity to the principle of Pavillon Ami fnave Marchandife ennemie, excepting, however, all those exceptions contained in the 19th and 20th articles of the Treaty of Commerce figured at Utrecht on the 11th of April 1713, between France and the United Provinces, which articles shall have the same force and value as if they were inferted word for word in the prefent oth. If (which God forbid) either of the two contracting parties shall be engaged in a war, in which the other shall be obliged to take a direct part, they shall concert together the most effectual means of annoying the enemy, and oblige him to make peace; and neither of them shall have power to disarm, to make or receive proposals of peace or truce, without the consent of the other; and if a negociation shall be opened, it shall not be begun and followed by either of the parties, without the participation of the other, and they shall make each other acquainted with all that paffes in the faid negociation.

10th. The two contracting parties, with a view efficaciously to fulfil the engagements of this treaty, agree to keep their forces at all times in a good state, and they shall have liberty to require of each other all the eclair issement on that subject they think necessary; they shall communicate to each other the flate of defence in which the military are, and concert the properest means to provide for the same

11th. The two parties shall faithfully communicate to each other the engagements which exist between them and other powers of Europe, which are to remain untouched, and they promife not to contract any future alliance or engagement whatever, which shall be directly or indirectly contrary to the

12th. The object of the present treaty having not only the fecurity and tranquillity of the two contracting parties in view, but also the maintenance of general peace, his Christian Majefly and their High Mightinesses have referred to themselves the liberty to request such other powers to join the faid treaty as they may judge necessary.

13th. In order the stronger to cement the good intelligence and union between the French and Dutch nations, it is agreed, that the two high contracting parties shall enter into a treaty of commerce, that the subjects of the Republic shall be treated in France, relative to trade and navigation, as the most favoured nation, and that the subjects of his Christian Majesty shall be treated the same in the United Provinces.

14th. The folemn ratifications of the prefent treaty, in good and due form, shall be exchanged at Verfailles between the high contracting parties in the space of fix weeks, or sooner, if possible, from the date of the signing of the preliminary treaty. In faith of which, we the under-written Ambassadors and Plenipotentiaries have set our hands and seals to the present

Done at Fontsinblezu, November 10. 1785.

SEPARATE ARTICLES. iff. In case the requiring party wishes to employ the succour demanded out of Europe, he is to give the other party the earliest notice, and at hast a time of three months, that measures may be taken accordingly.

2d. In consequence of the 4th article of the treaty of alliance, the two parties have igreed, that 1000 men infantry shall be valued at 10,000 Durch storins, and 1000 men cavalry at 30,000 florins per month.

3d. By virtue of the contracted alliance, both parties shall, as much as possible, further their mutual prosperity and advan-tage, by rendering each other every assistance, both in council and fuccours, upon all occasions, and not agree to any treaties or negociations which may be detrimental to each other, but ive notice of any fuch negociations which may be detrimental to each other, &c. as foon as they are proposed.

4th. It is expressly agreed, that the guarantee stipulated in the second article of the treaty signed this day, shall compre-hend the arrangement made through the mediation of his Christian Majesty, between the Emperor and the United Pro-

5th. These separate articles shall have the same force and value, as if they were incorporated in the records of juffice.

Signed this day. In truth of which, &c. Signed as the treaty.

Boston, OA. 10. By the Zephyr, Capt. Lee, arrived here in fifty days from L'Orient, we have received the following interesting and important intelligence.

Copy of a letter from the Consuls of Nantz to the Consuls of L'Orient.

" Gentlemen,

" We annex to this a copy of a letter we have just received from Mr Defontange, by which he informs us, that the Algerines have declared war against the United States of America, and that they are fitting out eight ships to take the A-merican vessels. We request of you, Gentlemen, to impart this intelligence to the Captains of that nation who may now be in your harbour, in order for them to take fuch measures, as to avoid falling into the hands of those pirates.

LONDON, Dec. 1.

Her Majesty's brother, whose death is announced in Tuefday's Gazette, was born on the 16th of August, 1748, was honoured by the King of Denmark with the Danish Order of the Elephant, was a Major General in the Imperial fervice, and a Dosfor of Laws in Great Britain.

This day the Lord Chancellor, attended with the proper officers, went to the House of Peers, for the purpose of pro-roguing the Parliament to the 24th of next month; as did the Speaker and two or three members to the House of Commons for the fame purpose.

The Board of Treasury met again this day for the dispatch of public business, and, after transacting such affairs as offered, adjourned till after Christmas towards the Parliamentary sessions.

It is generally faid on the continent, that there will be a commission appointed to regulate all that concerns the navigation of the Scheldt-but it is certain that it will not be opened to the fea; not because the Dutch have power to result the Emperor, but because it is not consistent with the interest of the French.

The fifth article of the treaty of peace between the Emperor and the Scates General, as lately figured at Fontainbleau, specifies a restriction towards each power to construct forts, or crest batteries within cannon-shot of each other. This plainly shews that they are afraid to trust to each other, and feems to look forward to fome future breach.

The news of the treaty between France and Holland had no fooner reached the Hagues than in the midst of their joy, they were apprifed that France had made a peremptory demand of a confiderable fum which the had incurred upon their account in the late war-a blow which the Burgomasters little expected from their new ally.

Since the taxes have been laid on horses, the country people in general, more particularly those in the countries of Warwick, Chester, Derby, and Stafford, are more frequently seen on the roads mounted on oxen, cows, and fometimes bulls, which are in hundreds of inftances equally as tractable as

When the trading and manufacturing part of Great Britain affemble together for the purpose of preserving their property, the society is laudable. Such is the Chamber of Commerce. They are all men of respectability, and in a very, very short time will become the most numerous society in England. Every man of truth and honour is bound to give it support, and as it is divested of political views, it becomes a kind of essence in the commercial conflitution of this country.

there is no party, no faction to direct or advise. It is for the guarding against any ministerial innovation on the rights and properties of trade and manufacture. The treaty between France and Holland requires this to be done; but any corrupt administration or party, might, for the purpose of preserving dishonourable peace, facrifice the very essence of all that is valuable in Britain. Let every trader, every manufacturer, look to this and remember, that even to guard against the Vo-lunteer's swords in Ireland, a bill was brought in to ruin the British manufacture and commerce for ever.

Yesterday the gentlemen of the Scottish Corporation dined together at the Shakespeare in Covent-Garden, to celebrate St Andrew's day .- The Marquis of Graham was in the chair, and the company confifted of above 130.—After dinner the following toasts were given: 1. The King, with three huzzas -2. The Queen with two huzzaa-3. The Prince of Wales, and the rest of the royal family, with two-4. The Scottish Corporation-5. The Land of Cakes-6. The President-7. It appears probable by the Parliament being prorogued to to late a period as the 24th of January, that there is not much business so lay before them that is likely to create debate, and consequently that the Irish business, which was agitated last will be postponed till a future opportunity.

On Friday last, the Duke of Richmond waited on his Majefty at St James's, and after the bulinels of the day was one, presented to his Majesty for his approbation two musquets of new invention, which had been laid before the Ordnance Board; the principle of them is fuch, that one ferew confine lock, stock, and barrel, the latter takes off in the middle; these muskets in time of a march are lighter for a foldier to carry, and more convenient, and both for fea and land fervice are found to be more eligible than any at present in use either for land or marine fervice.

We are informed that the Commissioners of Customs have directed the delivery of the Expedition, feized by the Deputy Comptroller of Cowes; but if that active young officer perfifts in the profecution of her at his own rifque and expence, which we are told is really the cafe, in all probability the cutter will be condemned, as there is at present no law to prevent the forfeiture of King's ships.

Madame d'Eon, formerly the Chevalier, has, fince her arrival in London, been uthered into company by a gentleman to whom the was formerly fecond in a duel, has lain with a lady who discarded her for an attempt of seduction, has made a present to a youth for whom she stood godfather, and has paid the arrears of nursing for a child sworn to her.

The remains of Mr Henderson are to be interred on Saturday next in the cloisters in Westminster Abbey, near the grave of the English Roscius, David Garrick, Esq.

By a letter from Mr M—— to Mr Mackay, we lean, that De Chameron was taken by M. de Longpré and de Surbois, infpectors of the police at Paris. He was taken by the following means: on M. de C.'s returning from Rotterdam to Paris by the route of Bruffels, he met de Chameron on the road, on foot, and dreffed like a failor. He took him into the diligence out of compassion, and he told M. de C. that he had been round the world with Captain Cook, and was an Englishman. Chameron quitted the diligence at Valenciennes, but not until he had received the address of his fellow-traveller, and had made a promise of calling on him at Paris. The wretched man arrived some days afterwards at Paris, and the watchful eye of the police having traced him, he was, as we have related, feized in the Thuilleries; but by wounding M. de Longpré with a knife, he escaped for the time. Two days after, he came to the house of his fellow-traveller, at nine o'clock in the evening, and requested an afylum, saying that they wished to arrest him for an unhappy affair, and that he had with difficulty escaped from the hands of the inspectors of the police. The gentleman communicated to his uncle, the person who writes the letter to Mr Mackay, these particulars, and he immediately suspected that it must be Chameron They went to M. de Longpré, who, together with M. de Surbois and a body of men, repaired instantly to the place of his concealment, and having taken measures to render all re-fishance fruitless, he was secured, and is now in fase custody.

The nine following convicts were executed this morning opposite Newgate, viz. Francis Storer, Daniel East, James Beaman, William Vandeput, William Cowley, George Manning, alias Francis Hill, Michael Smith, James Neibit, and

By a letter from Ghent we are informed, that Mr Blanchard arrived there on Monday afternoon at three o'clock, amidst the acclamations of the whole city. At five in the erening the theatre was full, and he was waited for with the greatest impatience. He declares he never made so dangerous a voyage as the last; he imagines that he ascended to the height of thirty-two thousand feet. The balloon at his departure was not near full, but as he ascended it expanded so considerably that he was fearful of its bursting every moment, as the valve, which was kept constantly open, did not seem to diminish its volume. Thus circumstanced, he had no other rescource but to make holes in the lower part of it with his flag-staff. He was now exposed to a new danger, for it descended with such rapidity, that he came within fight of the earth in an inflant. His last resource, after throwing away all his ballast, was to cut away his boat, and fasten himself to the cords, by this means the balloon answered the purpose of a parachute, and he came to the earth in the environs of Delt, without having received any injury.

We can only attribute his fafety to that conduct and pru-dence which he has always manifested in his aerial excursions. A less skilful aeronaut would certainly have perished."

Extract of a letter from London, Dec. 1.

Opposition, for the purpose of arranging matters against the meeting of Parliament. One evident ground on which they can attack the Minister with no small degree of success is, that, at the very time almost every other power in Europe has been forming treaties with each other, he should have done nothing of the kind for Great Britain; for the fact is, that at this very moment, not a fingle treaty has been brought to any conclusion, or even to a state of maturity, though negociations medication, or even to a trace or maturity, though negociations upon negociations have been, for fome time, going forward.—
Matters, for inflance, with refpect to commercial adjustment with France, remain far from being fettled. With Portugal, things continue as they were. Little progress has yet been made with the treaty opened with Russia. With the Emperor, every thing stands still; and with the Dutch, we know not how to act, while nothing has been done regarding the muchtalked of commercial intercourse with America, to say nothing of Ireland, which, perhaps, is the tenderest point of all for the Minister to touch upon. It would not be very difficult to affign reasons for every obstacle the Minister may have met with; but what is his greatest misfortune, every thing is likely to remain, in the fame unfettled flate at the meeting of Parliament. This may not probably be the fault of the Minister; but, however, that may be, it will subject him to the severest attacks of the Opposition.

"The Minister, on the other hand, is endeavouring to make amends for this, by doing every thing in his power that may firengthen public credit, and fecure to him the Landed

"The pension-lift, it is confidently said, is to undergo a very fevere review, in order to fee what faving may be made it to the public, those names only being to be continued, whose pensions have been granted to them, or their families, on account of some particular merit, or public service.

"Nothing seems, at present, so much to engross the attention of the Cabinet, as the disposal of the vacant blue ribbon.

The fact is, the first that should fall to the gift of the Crown, was fome time ago promifed to the Marquis of Buckingham, who, upon the death of the Landgrave of Heffe Caffel, expected a performance of it. Mr Pitt, however, from his fituation, without regarding any previous promife, looks upon him-felf entitled to a refufal of the honour, while the Prince Royal of Denmark, from the likelihood there is of his forming a ma-trimonial alliance with the Princes Royal, is looked to as a person on whom this mark of honour should be conferred. Under these circumstances, it is very likely, that the ribbon vacant will not be disposed of, but kept until the arrival of the Prince of Denmark, which is not now expected to be till sum-mer, when, should no other ribbon be then vacant, it will in all probability be given to his Royal Highness.

"De Chameron, it is faid, will not be brought to Eng-land, but tried in France, and, in all probability, be broke alive on the wheel, for stabbing the officer of the police that first attempted to secure him."

The two following letters were this day received by Meg. Allan, Steuart, and Company, merchants in Leith, from one of the Committee of Gentlemen who lately fet off from Edin-burgh to take care of the cargo, Sc. of the brigantine Mary. Saltfleet, Lincolnshire, Nov. 28, 1785.

"Before you receive this, you will have heard that the da-mage done the Mary is much lefs than we had reason to fear. We arrived here this morning, and found all the goods fafely landed and warehoused, under the care of Mr Neave, except the ground tier, which consists of porter, yeast, some molasses, and other heavy goods, which must remain on board to serve as ballast, till the Mary gets into the Humber. They expect to get her off to-morrow morning; and if the wind continues as at prefent, S. W. she will be in the Humber in a few hours, as the lies at prefent on the beach, about half way between low and high water-mark. There is only about fixteen inches of water in the hold, which is all she has made in two days. She lies about five and a half miles to the fouthward of this place. I am told there is not 5 l. of damage done to all the goods that are landed, and none stole or pilfered. It has been managed with the greatest propriety by the assistance of Mr Mason, china-man in Edinburgh, who was a passenger on board the veffel, and has a most distinct note of the marks, &c. of every article that is landed, and deferves to be very particularly recompensed by the underwriters and proprietors of the ship and cargo: -a Mr Duncan has also been very useful, and will no doubt be rewarded. It is unnecessary for me to be more particular at present. The concerned may be fatisfied, that every thing has been, and will be done, for the best. Lighters are hired to carry the goods to Hull. They begin to load to-morrow, and we expect to put them on board Hunter's vessel, one of the Hull traders to Leith, a new ship, on board of whom they will, I expect, arrive fafe at Leith. There is no post goes before Wednesday. I fend this by a gentleman, who goes to Alford to morrow morning early, so you will probably hear from me of to-morrow's date, at the fame time with this, when I expect to tell you the Mary is fafely off the beach; and, if she does not make more water than at present, a slight repair, I expect, will enable us to send her to Leith, where she will be properly repaired under the sight of the underwiters, and at a much less expense than here."

Saltfleet, Lincolnshire, November 30. 1785. " I wrote you 28th current, which I hope you have received. I should have wrote you yesterday, according to promise, but found it was no post-day at Louth, the nearest posttown. I have the pleafure of acquainting you, that we yesterday took out all the goods from the Mary that could be done There was left about 100 to 110 hogheads of porter, and 24 butts of yealt, with one or two other heavy articles; and, about four o'clock, we had the fatisfaction of feeing her afloat, and fet fail with a tolerable wind for the Humber, being rather flightly ballasted. She could not carry much fail, as it blew exceedingly hard; however, it was luckily from the shore, by which they had smooth water. She was still in fight of this place this morning, and the wind coming round about N. E. she will, we hope, by this time, be safe in the Humber. Mr Hay has orders to get the ship surveyed there; and, if the can proceed to Leith with a flight repair, to do so, in order to be completely repaired. We brought a car-penter from Hull with us, who says she has met with little damage, at least visible, although some, or perhaps many of the timbers are broken. If she cannot proceed to Leith without a complete repair, Mr Hay is to write to Leish for further orders. Had the veffel not got off yesterday; the must inevitably have gone to pieces as foon as the tide came up to her t.-1.7, as we have had a violent from of wind, which has oc-calioned a dreadful fwell on the coast. Upon the whole, with regard to both vessel and cargo, every thing has happened in

"The concerned are under the greatest obligations to many people here, who have behaved in the most friendly manner, and granted every necessary assistance. At same time, it will be done at a great expense. With regard to the cargo, it will be shipped here with all possible speed for Hull; but proper vessels are exceedingly dissent to be got; and, so long as this wind holds. no veffel car either come in or go out. mentioned to you in my last, that the cargo was in good or-der. A hogshead of sugar, some lumps of sugar, and other trifling articles, have received some damage, but, on the whole,

Friday forenoon an experiment was made at Leith on a vessel of a new construction, the invention of a gentleman of this city. She consists of a vessel of about fixty feet long, and feven feet broad, cut in two lengthways, the fections placed at about feven feet distance, and joined together at top by strong beams planked over, so as to represent, upon deck, a vessel of the ordinary proportions, fixty seet by fixteen. The experi-ment proved highly satisfactory, and fully answered expecta-tion, notwithstanding one of the principal fails was, by an accident, prevented from being properly fet.—She was attended by the King's boat at Leith, which is reckoned a fast failing boat of her fize; but the new vessel outsailed her; and when the breeze increased, left her about one mile in four.——It was found that the above vessel is capable of carrying almost double the quantity of sail of one of the ordinary construction, and of the same length and breadth; and has this peculiar advantage, that she only draws two feet and a half water.

A T a period when an attempt is made by a few individuals to carry a bill through Parliament for reducing the number of the Judges, and altering the confliction of the Court of Selfion, in direct violation of the 19th article of the Union, which declares, "That the Court of Selfion, or College of "Judges do Judges the Lives the Court of Selfion, or College of "Justice, do, after the Union, and notwithstanding thereof, remain, in all time coming, within Scotland, as it is now constituted by the laws of that kingdom, and with the same authority and privileges as before the Union;" I am altonifted that you do not feel yourfelves called apon, in duty to your country and to your confituents, to follow the example of many of the most respectable countries of Scotland, and express not only your strongest disapprobation of such a measure, press not only your strongest disapprobation of such a measure, but instruct your representatives in Parliament to oppose it. That the salaries of the Judges are at present by no means adequate, and that they should be augmented, is impossible to be disputed; but that this ought to be done by diminishing their number, is an idea disgraceful to the country; more especially, as there are sufficient sunds, already provided by law, which can very properly be appropriated for that purpose. Permit me, Gentlemen, to call to your remembrance how deeply you are interested in this matter. If the articles of the Union are thus to be sported with, either to humour the caprice, or to gratify the ambition of individuals, attend to what may, one thus to be sported with, either to humour the caprice, or to gratify the ambition of individuals, attend to what may, one day or other, be your own fituation. If then, Gentlemen, thi bill for new-modelling the Court of If then, Gentlemen, this bill for new-modelling the Court of Session is passed into a law, what certainty have you that it may not be founded upon as a precedent for introducing other bills into Parliament to infringe these very rights and privileges which have been thus so anxiously secured to you at the Union of the two kingdoms? Bestir yourselves, then. Be not idle spectators. Form spirited resolutions upon this important business, and publish them in the newspapers. If the voice of the country comes forth unitedly and decidedly against the bill, which must be the case, the authors and abettors of it will not, pay they dare not, persever in attemptions to case. will not, nay they dare not, persevere in attempting to carry it through Parliament. LOT II The Lands of Hotts, as presently possessed by Christopher Smith and John Lawton, at the upset-price of L. 1050 0 0

The tack of those lands expires at Candlemas 1788; the present yearly rent is 45 1. 8 s. 3 d. besides casuaties. The late Mr Bell paid 1300 1. for them, about 12 years ago, and they have since been considerably improved.

LOT IV. The Lands of Gilmartin, presently possessed by William Little, at the like upset-price of I. 450 0 0

The tacks of these two farms are current for four years after Candlemas and Whitsunday next, at the yearly rent of 17 l. 10 s. each, besides cassinglies. As they are capable of great improvement, a considerable rise of rent may be expected on the expiry of the leases. The crops on these lands, and on the whole estate, have been, for these many years past, uncommonly good, and the tenants are very thriving; the situation of the lands, being in every respect convenient, both for procuring the means of improvement and disposing of the produce.

The whole estate is held of a subject-superior for payment of a triffling senduty, and the tenants pay all public burdens, except the stipend, which is 3 l. 4 s. 7 d. yearly.

The articles of roup, progress of writs, searches of encumberances, and rental, are to be seen in the hands of Alexander Young writer in Edinburgh. The tacks and plans of the estate are lodged with Mr George Richardson of Pearsbyhall, who will show the lands; and copies of the articles and rental with Mr James Graham writer in Dumfries; to any of whom persons wanting surther information may apply.

Offers for a private sale of the whole estate will be received any time before the day of roup.

These lands are held feu of the Viscount of Stormont, for payment of 91.8 10d. Sterling of yearly seu-duties; but though the whole amount of these seu-duties is deducted from the proven rent, the purchaser will be entitled to relief of a proportion thereof, falling on the lands of Westwood, now belonging to John Paxton, Esq. This proportion will be about 41. Sterling, but has not yet been divided from the cumulo seu-duty. The tacks of Tundergarth and Hazleberry expire at Candlemas and Whitsunday 1787, and Hayhill is possessed from year to year.

Although the teinds of the above lands are valued and dedacted from the proven rent, yet there is every reason to believe that they are not liable for any teind. In a process of spulizie of teinds, at the instance of Lord Stormont, the superior and tirular, the heritors of Tundergarth were associated by repeated decisions of the Court of Session, but the decreet absolvitor has never been extracted.

1.OT I. The Lands of CATLINS, and pertinents, lying in the parish of Drystiale and shire of Dumfries. The proven rental of these lands,

The articles of roup and title-deeds are to be seen in the office of Mr Alexander Stevenson, depute-clerk of Session; and persons wanting surther information, may apply to Alexander Young writer in Edinburgh, agent in the sale, John Aiken junior writer in Dumfries, the sactor, or to Mungo Dobie writer in Lockerby.

SALE OF LANDS NEAR GLASGOW.

SALE OF LANDS NEAR GLASGOW.

To be SOLD by private bargain, the Farm of Eafter Mailing of Eafter Quently, lyingon the banks of the Monkland Canal, about three miles diffant from Glafgow. The vicinity of these lands to that city, render them a very sit situation for building a Villa, which will command an extensive view of a very sine country, and may at a very small expense be completely sheltered with trees.

Mr Benjamin Barton, water in Glafgow, will inform as to the rental and other particulars. The tenant will show the grounds, and any person inclining to purchase may apply to Mr Robert Playfair writer, Liberton's Wyod, Edinburgh, who has powers to sell, and will show the progress of writs, with a plan of the lands.

BY ADJOURNMENT. SALE OF KILMARNOCK, AYR-SHIRE.

To be SOLD by public voluntary roup, within the Royal Exchange Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, upon Wednesday the 7th of December 1785, betwirt 6 and 7 o'clock afternoon.

The Lands, Lordinip, and Barrory of KILMARNOCK, the Lands of BARLEITH and BLAIR, and the Lands of BUSHBY-BARCLAY, BARLEITH and BLAIR, and the Lands of BUSHBY-BARCLAY, with the teinds and pertinents, lying in the parifiles of Kilmarnock, Riccarton, and Kilmarns, in the county of Ayr.

The yearly free land rent of the premiifes, is at prefent 2100 l. Sterling. The valued rent of the whole is 2800 l. 23 s. 4 d. Scots. The eflate is altogether inclofed, having access to every farm by turnpike roads. It is capable of great improvement, intuated in the heart of a pleasant and plentiful country, and furrounding the populous manufacturing town of Kilmarnock; which, with feveral small estates in the neighbourhood, are held of the proprietor of this Lordhip. There is an inexhaultible body of coal under the whole lands, and the proprietor has at present two coal works working to great advantage, for home consumpt, and for exportation; which may be surther greatly increased.

coal works working to great advantage, for home confumpt, and for exportation; which may be further greatly increased.

There is also upon this estate, and near the sea port of Irvine, a very valuable blind coal, in much repute for malting, and burning lime. The demand at the Irith, and other fareign markets, is very great, so that it yields at present 12001. Sterling per annum clear, is daily encreasing, and, in the hands of persons of skill, might much exceed that sum. The country round, abounds in limestone quarries, now working, whereby the lands will be greatly improven, and the rents encreased at the expiry of the current leases. The patronage of the collegiate charge of the church of Kilmarnock is pertinent of the estate, with a very numerous vassalage of the town and neighbourhood; whereby the casualties of superiority become very considerable annually. Upon the whole, this Lordship is reckoned as complete, advantageous, and thriving, as any freehold in Scotland, of the extent. land, of the extent.

The foregoing effate, and the blind coal, will be exposed together, or a separate lots, at the option of the exposer.

For further particulars inquire at Alexander Farquharson, Esq; acomptant, or Thomas Tod writer to the fignet, Edinburgh; with whom may be seen the rental and leases, the title-deed, plans of the evate, and the conditions of fale.
